After a busy week of basketball, the Lady Dragons finished with two big wins over Dundy County, Neb. and Haxtun and a loss to Burlington.

Coach Arlan Scholl said the girls are showing steady improvement, and he felt good about getting two quality wins last week.

Holyoke fans were seeing all things pink Monday night when the Dragons hosted a Pink Out for the Burlington game. Clad in pink and white jerseys, the Lady Dragons used the game as an opportunity to raise funds for breast cancer awareness.

Nearly $250 was raised, which will stay local and go to the Melissa Memorial Hospital Foundation.

The Dragons have a tough week ahead with their last two regular season games against Akron and Sedgwick County. “We will be prepared and give our best in practice and on the court,” said Scholl.

The Sedgwick County game will be important and could have an impact on Holyoke’s district seeding, he added.
