

Telephone town halls offer citizens forum to talk transportation

Written by Holyoke Enterprise

The Colorado Department of Transportation is hosting a series of telephone town hall meetings this spring, providing the public with an opportunity to ask questions and provide input about regional transportation needs.

Beginning in early April and continuing through early June, residents in all 64 counties will be called at random through an automated system and invited to take part in the telephone forums.

The Eastern Region session will be Thursday, April 10 at 7 p.m. This includes the counties of Phillips, Sedgwick, Logan, Washington, Yuma, Kit Carson, Cheyenne, Lincoln and Elbert.

Coloradoans who choose to join in will have the opportunity to express their thoughts about transportation, how CDOT should focus its limited funding, discuss the link between transportation and the economy and weigh in on regional priorities.
