

Cow/calf producer programs scheduled to be held Dec. 5-6

Written by Holyoke Enterprise

Colorado State University Extension will host a series of three Cow/Calf Producer's Programs Dec. 5-6.

The first will be Wednesday, Dec. 5 at Northeastern Junior College in Sterling with sign-in beginning at 9:30 a.m.

The event will be in the Tennant Art Gallery in the Hays Student Center. Coffee and rolls will be provided at the Sterling location.

On the evening of Dec. 5, a second program will be held at the Yuma County Fairgrounds in Yuma. Sign-in will be open at 5:30 p.m. A local 4-H club will be serving a light meal at the Yuma event.

The third program will be held Thursday, Dec. 6 at the Washington County Road & Bridge Shop in Anton. Sign-in will begin at 9:30 a.m. A local 4-H club will be serving a light lunch at the Anton event.

At all three programs, presenters from Colorado, Kansas and Nebraska will provide information on pasture/range weed control, expectations of 2013 range following the 2012 drought, heifer development strategies, external cattle parasites, ration balancing for the cow herd and a market update.

There is a modest registration fee to cover the cost of food and handouts.

To pre-register or get more information, contact the Yuma County Extension office at 970-332-4151. Those wishing to pay the registration fee by check can make it out to YUMEX. If one has a disability for which they seek an accommodation to attend this meeting, notify the Yuma County Extension Office at least five working days prior to the event.
