Holyoke Lady Dragon volleyball girls are on their way to the regional tournament this Friday—something that’s only happened two other times in HHS volleyball history.

Two wins over Wiggins and Merino Tuesday, Oct. 23 in the first round of districts secured them their coveted spot at regionals.

Holyoke’s first year for an official volleyball league was 1973, and the first team to make it to sub-districts (the equivalent to today’s regionals) was in 1979.

2000 was a big year for the Lady Dragons, when they not only went to regionals but also went on to the state tournament, finishing with a 13-13 record that year. 1986 was their best win-loss record, at 12 wins and only four losses.

“It says a lot about this team” to make it to regionals this year, said coach Michelle Vieselmeier.

Dragon fans could certainly be heard last Tuesday night when Holyoke hosted the first round of district volleyball pool play, defeating both Wiggins and Merino.

First facing off against Wiggins, HHS defeated them in five sets. The Dragons lost the first game a close 23-25, but came back strong to win the next two 25-18 and 25-12.

Wiggins wasn't ready to give up yet. Holyoke lost the fourth game again 23-25. They rallied in the last set to win 15-10.

Coach Vieselmeyer said they lost focus for a few minutes at the end of the first and fourth sets, allowing Wiggins to gain the lead. "The momentum shifts, and we couldn't recover," she said.
