

Ballyneal ranked among world's best, offers exclusive opportunity

Written by Holyoke Enterprise

Golf Digest—which for 50 years has served as the most authoritative and innovative voice in the golf industry—recently ranked Ballyneal Golf Club No. 68 among the World's 100 Greatest Golf Courses.

Designed by architect Tom Doak, the private links course southeast of Holyoke opened to critical acclaim in 2006 and is now unanimously recognized among the very best courses on the planet. The Golf Digest ranking follows similarly high ratings from Golf Magazine, Golfweek and other esteemed publications.

From day one, Ballyneal's mission has been to deliver a singularly unique experience for its members. By letting Mother Nature dictate the flow through the massive chop-hills of Eastern Colorado, the course's routing allows for limitless options and guarantees no two loops are alike.

To read the full article, consider an e-Subscription. Call 970-854-2811 for details.

Holyoke Enterprise March 20, 2014