

School approves budget with $92,500 deficit

Written by Brenda Johnson Brandt

Approving $7.67 million in total appropriations, Holyoke's Board of Education adopted its 2009-2010 June budget Tuesday, June 16.

Budget figures reflected a deficit of $92,583, acknowledging the district realizes expenditures are that much more than revenues. Board members adopted a resolution authorizing spending $92,583 out of the beginning fund balance for budgeted general operating expenditures.

District director of budget and finance Sharon Thompson noted the June budget is based on Colorado Department of Education's 4.9 percent additional funding.

The projected funded pupil count is 574.5, and the budget cites $1,357,417 in reserves. The board has targeted $1.2 million as the floor for the reserve funds.

Also accounted for in the June budget are step increases for certified and classified staff, PERA district contribution and district health insurance contribution which stays at $350/month or $4,200 per participating employee.

Thompson noted budgeting for two full-time special education teachers at the elementary school, 2.5 Title I positions (an increase by one full position) and the addition of a third fifth-grade position. One full-time art position was eliminated in the district.

She pointed out capital reserve allocations are no longer required, and noted athletic and activity items are now listed in the general fund.

The June budget is basically a preliminary one, as the final budget will be adopted in December. Audited figures from 2008-09, as well as the student count for 2009-2010 will be known by then.

The following appropriation resolution was approved for the 2009-2010 budget:

General Fund $6,525,044
Bond Redemption 434,750
Food Service 169,800
Trust and Agency 247,000
Activity 295,000
Total Appropriation $7,671,594

In other personnel matters, the resignation of alternative school director George Purnell was accepted.

Purnell has accepted an assistant principal/athletic director/assistant coach position at John Mall High School in Walsenburg, where he will start July 1.

Prior to the employment decisions, a 50-minute executive session was held for new personnel discussion.

Prior to accepting extra-duty assignments for 2009-10, board member Jon King asked to table the agenda item until board member Linda Jelden was present. His motion died for lack of a second, and the extra-duty list was approved 5-1, with King casting the dissenting vote.

Fees approved; random drug policy has minor revisions

In further action at last week's board meeting, changes to the current student fee schedule were approved for 2009-10.

While the participation fee for each JH and HS sport, as well as HS and JH cheerleading will remain at $35 per sport, a cap was set at $100 per year limit for those involved in three or more sports.

Three other additional fees were approved: $10 for HS P.E. class to cover costs of bowling and swimming, $5 user fee for math graphing calculators and $15 foods and nutrition fee.

Two changes were approved for the random drug testing policy which was implemented last fall.

When students request a hair sample test rather than a Dip or Etg, the family will now be required to make up the approximate $50 difference in cost.

Also, the policy will now state when a student is selected for random drug testing, a bottle of water will be provided 30 minutes prior to the test. Principal Susan Ortner said this simply clarifies practice which has been used this past year.

Ortner also reported she had checked into auditing the random selection and there are companies that can do that for a fee. She noted she talked with the Scottsbluff, Neb. school district and the principal in New Jersey who was the speaker at a program she attended in Pagosa Springs in 2008. They don't do audits and have had no questions pertaining to the need for them.
